

Understanding Practice Change by Farmers

- a national symposium

Roger Wilkinson Biography

Roger Wilkinson is Senior Social Researcher with the Department of Primary Industries, Bendigo, Victoria. He has been researching rural social issues in Australia and New Zealand since 1989, and has written or co-authored more than 70 journal articles, book chapters and research reports.

Before joining DPI, Roger worked as a research fellow at the University of Melbourne and a social scientist at Landcare Research New Zealand. Roger's research has involved rural social change, adoption of new technology, social aspects of resource management, perceptions of risk, and social impact assessment. With qualifications in agricultural science, rural sociology, philosophy and engineering, along with a farm of his own and a lifelong interest in agricultural machinery, Roger is equally adept with a gas axe in the workshop and a statistics package in the office.